PROFESSIONAL SKILLS

- Cart wrangling
- I talk a lot about how much I hate social media
- I own a copy of Juggling for the Complete Klutz that my Dad bought me on vacation in 1987
- Poop scooping
- I can do most of the dance Sisqo does in "The Thong Song" Yeeeeeah,

I don't think you heard me.
That Thong
Tha
Thong
Thong Thong

PERSONAL SKILLS

When I was in college (and after, like at weddings) and 'Regulate' by Warren G. feat. Nate Dogg (RIP) comes on and there's that speech from "Young Guns" in the intro and they go "Regullllators ...mount up!" I lip synch that whole part while looking at my dance floor partner and I'm able to do that and then transition right into dancing when the beat drops.

ABOUT*

I usually try not to quote song lyrics on resume, but this whole thing lately reminds me a lot of the second verse of "I'm Afraid of Me" (track three of side two of Culture Club's "Kissing to be Clever.")

"I'M AFRAID OF ME
Always survive days
Cut and discretion
Touched in a sane way
Leave no impression."

I'm afraid of me

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS!

CART WRANGLER/CASHIER/ASST. KEY HOLDER
Target Vintage Oaks | Novato, Ca Aug. 1992 - Sept. 1993

- I joined Target because I wanted to help my buddy Paul steal CDs. I somehow lasted two years.
- My mentor was this guy Les Thompson. His name tag said "Spicoli". He drove a Camaro and said things like, "Single moms love to bone in the Bone Zone aka the "BZ." (<- aka the far end of the parking lot near Burger King.)

DOG KENNEL CLEANER

Tahoe-Truckee Kennels | Truckee, Ca March 2006 - Aug. 2009

- The dude who owned it drove a canary-yellow Hummer with a vanity plate that said 'TNTKNLS.'
- I was DEFINITELY the only person who worked there who was not in high school. I was like, "Make sure you go to college, get a degree otherwise you'll be working jobs like this." And all the kids were like, "You went to college." Fair point.

AWARDS/STUFF

A Bunch of California Newspaper Association Awards
Nobody cares, these are soccer trophies | 1999-2010

IMy Friend from College Named Rick. He Was in My Dorm (1993-present)
He's hilarious and not in a bro'y way, just me. We've been friends for a quarter century.
